Whine Base

The wine base content is the product of a natural fermentation of the grape must or juice, therefore a natural product such as the grape juice comes.

Alcohol

The alcoholic content and other components come from a biological transformation that is due to a spontaneous and natural fermentation and vinification process.

Extractos de Fruta

The typification happens in a final stage in which fruit extracts that define it are added, additionally in this stage carbon dioxide is added, which gives it the proper gasification of this type of "Cooler" products.
